PRICE TEN CENTS

GARDNER
STILL IS ELUDING
PURSUERS

(By Associated Press)
KELSO, Wash., June 15.—Posses raking the woods and patrolling the roads of Cowlitz county for Roy Gardner, the escaped mail robber, resumed their activities this morning following a night of vigil. That Gardner has obtained food enabling him to remain under cover is indicated by bits of information that have been reported to federal and county officers who are directing the search.

Although the men were on the job all night around here and Castle Rock, nothing was seen of Gardner. Others today are back on the hunt. All trains are being watched, all restaurants are under surveillance and farm houses are being warned.

The line of watch now runs all along the river from Portland to Kalama, United States Marshal Holohan says his headquarters have been moved to Castle Rock from San Francisco until Gardner is captured or the chase leads somewhere else.

Mrs. Harry Williamson, wife of the proprietor of a restaurant at Castle Rock, who took Gardner's order yesterday when he entered the place, picked out his picture from a group of others, establishing to the satisfaction of the officers that the man was Gardner.

STARVATION
STORY IS TRUE

The article printed in yesterday's Bonanza of the finding of Michael Fagin in a cabin in an emaciated condition, caused by illness and the lack of nourishment, is correct, and is substantiated by physicians, notwithstanding the contradiction in the Morning Times and the matron of the county hospital. The patient was not removed to the Mine Operators' hospital for treatment for erysipelas, as he was not afflicted with the disease, but he was taken to that institution for the purpose of building up his emaciated frame due to lack of proper nourishment. It is true that Fagin had $2500 on deposit in a bank. The Mine Operators' hospital does not admit erysipelas cases, owing to a state law prohibiting infectious cases being removed to strictly surgical institutions.

YUMA, Ariz., June 15.—Clad in their tribal regalia, the chiefs and elders of the Yuma tribe of Indians came to the home of Mrs. Ivy Polhamus here to do honor to the memory of their friend as she was about to be buried with the white man's ceremonies. Mrs. Polhamus had lived in Yuma 55 years and in the early days of the settlement became well known to the Indians. The visitors filed past their dead friend as she lay in her home and then repaired to the lawn where gravely and with formal dignity they gave the burial ritual of the tribe. Some few pioneers knew what was being said, but to most of the visitors the brief ceremony was only a pantomime, with gestures and uplifted faces indicating a prayer to the Great Manitou. When they had finished the brief ceremony the Indians stalked away as silently as they had come.

PROPELLERS FOR AIRPLANES ARE MADE OF METAL

(By Associated Press)
PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 15.—An all-metal propeller for airplanes capable of having the blades reversed has been delivered to the government by a local company. According to officials of the company, a plane, equipped with the reversible blades in its first test, was stopped in a distance of 250 feet by means of the new device. Under the old system a plane could not stop before traveling at least 700 feet. It is the plan of the company to so perfect the new blades that a stop can be made, after landing, within 100 feet.

The design of the new blades was made at McCook field while the mechanical details were worked out in Pittsburgh. The blades, which are made of steel tubing of tapering section and thickness, without welding, except to enclose the extreme tip, fit over the two arms of the hub. They are held in place by means of roller and ball bearings. The rollers are said to greatly reduce the friction of the rotation of the blades about their center axis. An angular development of 45 degrees can be obtained by a control, which extends to the cockpit.
